Dinner To Naval Officers Of Two Nations One Of Most Successful Maui Chamber Of Commerce Has Had

Visitors Are Shown Over Island And Are Lavish In Praise Of Hospitality Beyond Expectations

As a fitting climax to a day of sight-seeing came the dinner and dance given by the Maui Chamber of Commerce to the visiting naval officers of the British light cruiser Cape Town and officers of the United States fleet that was in Kahului harbor at the Grand Hotel last night, one of the pleasantest affairs of the kind that Maui has ever known.

Day Of Sightseeing

Yesterday morning cars were at the entrance of Claudine Wharf awaiting the officers of the visiting cruiser, the cars manned generally by former British subjects. The guests were then hustled off in various directions on sight seeing trips, out through the cane fields and into the pineapple country. There were visits to the Puunene Mill which was running on the 1923 grind, and to the Haiku cannery. Some stopped at the Puunene Club for a swim or tennis and there were trips up Iao Valley and to other scenic points.

Meantime the men who had shore leave were taken aboard trains up to Haiku where they saw the delicious pineapples being "lined" and had the opportunity to sample great luscious slices. Returning they went to the Fair Grounds where numbers of the officers also went and there was played a soccer game. As was expected, the visitors won but the game was much more closely contested than had been expected, the score being 5 to 2 for the Cape Town team.

Jolly Social Evening

Before 7 o'clock cars began to roll up in front of the Grand Hotel and discharge their passengers and soon the lanai and lobby were a gay and animated sight. Maillies, British naval officers and U. S. officers from the Sea Gull and the eight subs with her mingling together.

Within the dining room at the Wailuku end there draped two large flags of the two nations. At the end of the room was a long table. To its left were the musicians and to the right and Waihee of it, also, were numbers of smaller tables. There were places for 150 dinners and nearly that number were at table.

To the ears of the persons in the lobby and on the lanai came the sound of music from Eddie Tam's orchestra and the signal to enter the dining room was given, the guests having generally learned the location of their seats from a diagram in the lobby in advance.

Second Welcome Extended

Hardly had the fruit cocktail and soup been disposed of when J. J. Walsh, toastmaster, introduced Judge Case as the first speaker. He told a story of the composition of a little girl on automobiles which raised a laugh and then went into a more serious vein, once more welcoming the visitors and complimenting them on their splendid services to the world in the recent war. He prophesied peace for the future growing largely from the friendship of the two nations of the same blood and tongue.

Interspersed with the speeches were musical numbers, some Hawaiian numbers and others for dancing and numbers of the diners took advantage of the latter and left their seats to dance between courses.

British Commander Replies

Toastmaster Walsh next introduced Captain Jones of H. M. S. Cape Town who expressed for himself, his officers and crew their appreciation of the reception and entertainment that had been accorded them. He said as they were entering Kahului Harbor they saw the American flag floating from the nine-layer and knew when they saw that ship and the submarines they had met friends, for the officers of the two navies were friends before as well and during the late war. They were taken by surprise, he continued, when the reception committee of the Chamber of Commerce came alongside and then aboard, and surprise became astonishment when they were told of the program of entertainment laid out for them, for they had expected nothing of the kind.

Commander Welch Speaks

Next of the speakers was Commander Welch of the U. S. Navy. Commander Welch spoke of the hospitality always extended to members of the American Navy when in port at Kahului, said officers with him knew it even better than he for this was only his second visit to Maui and he had been to no other islands port except Honolulu, but he had found all the good things his brother officers had told him of Maui confirmed and he subscribed to the Maui motto, "Maui no ka oi." He was certain that the British officers would carry away the same impression. He dealt briefly on the friendly relations between the two countries and their navies.

N. K. Otsuka next spoke and paid tribute to the prowess shown by the British navy and its service to the world in the war. He commented on the friendly relations between the country of his birth, that of his residence and the nation of the visitors. He touched on the advantage to be secured by all from such friendly intercourse as was brought about by the visit and the satisfaction that should be felt from it.

J. H. Gray, secretary of the Chamber, was the last speaker. He commented on the family and blood relationship of the people of the two nations, and said that though they had separated more than a century ago they had been brought together once more. There had been differences in the past. In 1812 they had fought but the positions of the two nations on the point of difference at that time had now been revised. Then the United States contended against the British claim to right of search and seizure. Now the United States was contending for the right of search and seizure and the Britons were opposing, only in 1812, it was search for and the seizure of men and now it was search for and seizure of spirits.

He invited the visitors to join the "Come Back Club" of which he said Honolulu had no monopoly.

The toastmaster then announced that all would rise and "Aloha Oe" would be sung and then the floor cleared for dancing.

Jolly Dance Follows

At first during the dinner the visitors from the Cape Town had held back to some extent from dancing fearing a difference in the style of dance of the two countries but more and more of them joined the dances between courses and after the tables had been removed from the dining room all entered into the spirit of the occasion and had a jolly evening of it.

The committee in charge of the dinner was D. C. Lindsay, H. K. Duncan and H. B. Penhallow.

Hungarian Artist To Delight Maui Folk With Rare Talents

From Honolulu where he has been one of the sensations of the season comes Laszlo Schwartz to Maui next week to be heard and seen at the various theaters of the Maui circuit. He will open at Puunene on Tuesday and will be heard in Wailuku on Wednesday.

Laszlo Schwartz has a rare combination of talents which add interest and zest to his performances. He is a violinist, a composer of music, an author, a composer, a lecturer and a cartoonist. Usually when a person possesses one of such talents he is satisfied, with two of them he is a success but when so many are combined he becomes a marvel.

In his programs in Honolulu the Hungarian artist has combined violin numbers with discourses which he has illustrated with comic cartoons.

Evangelist-Singer Is Coming To Maui

Fred Butler, an evangelistic singer, accompanied by his wife will arrive on Maui next Wednesday afternoon by the Mauna Kea from Honolulu. He has spent three profitable weeks in meetings on the island of Oahu. He will be on Maui ten days.

A meeting was held in the Kaahumanu church this morning at 10:30 to map out the program for his campaign on Maui. It is planned to have him visit several of the larger schools in the latter part of his visit, after the schools reassemble following the Christmas vacation. On Sunday night, December 31, he will have charge of the service at the Wailuku Union Church, which is planned to be a union service, and is sponsored by the three local Christian Endeavor societies.

Mr. Butler sang in opera previous to his taking up evangelistic work.

Sports Enjoyed

In the Wailuku Gym last night there was put on for the visitors a game of basketball between two high school teams, the first team winning 31 to 22. There were not so many of the British tars present as had been expected but numbers of the Yankee gobs dropped in and the spirited game was much enjoyed.

This afternoon the soccer game will be between two teams from off the Cape Town, old rivals, and will be played on the Wailuku grounds instead of at Bahului. Game to be called at 4 o'clock.

There will be no entertainment this evening as it was not found practicable to stage boxing and wrestling as expected.

Lindsey Confirmed For Supreme Bench

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The senate yesterday afternoon confirmed the appointment of Alexander Lindsey Jr., as justice of the supreme court of the Territory of Hawaii.

The nomination of Lindsey failed of confirmation in the special session of Congress just closed, due to a Democratic filibuster, and for three days Lindsey was out of office, or until the President had opportunity to re-submit the nomination to the regular session now sitting.

Anonymous Charges Face Honolulu Cops

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
HONOLULU, Dec. 20.—Sheriff Rose announced today that Federal officers have furnished him two unsigned affidavits charging two members of the Honolulu police force with graft in connection with the handling of opium cases. The sheriff said the papers would be returned to the Federal officers for signature, and if returned signed will be sent to the police commissioner for action.

Kahului's Christmas Tree Is On Saturday

The community Christmas tree in Kahului will be held on Friday evening at the Community House at 7:30 o'clock. There will be the usual well lighted tree, a program of Christmas songs and recitations by the children of the Union Sunday school, and Santa Claus is expected to make his appearance promptly with good things for about 450 children.

A committee is in charge of the raising of the funds.

The ladies of the Aid Society are requested to meet at the Community House Friday morning to assist in the decorating of the tree and in arranging the packages preparatory to Santa's coming.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
HONOLULU, Dec. 20.—H. E. Stafford yesterday announced his resignation as assistant deputy city and county attorney, on the ground that he plans to leave today for the mainland to enter a law partnership in the City of Mexico, where he spent some time on his vacation last summer.

Stafford has been commander of Honolulu Post No. 1, American Legion. He came to Honolulu about five years ago, and was deputy attorney general of the territory before assuming the city and county office.

Chinese Treaties Are Approved By Belgium

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
BRUSSELS, Dec. 20.—The Chamber of Deputies today approved the text of two treaties concluded at the Washington arms conference by the Powers interested in China. The first is designed to safeguard the rights and interests of China and promote intercourse between that and other Powers in a basis of equality of opportunity; the second relates to revision of the Chinese customs tariff, and is designed to increase the revenues of the Chinese government.

Homes Commission Starts Retrenching

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
HONOLULU, Dec. 20.—It is estimated by the Hawaiian Homes Commission, following a meeting yesterday that it will begin Jan. with a deficit of $1690. Director George P. Cooke said that expenditures will have to be cut to break even in February. It is estimated that the income of the commission in 1923 will be $60,000 with perhaps $24,000 more added, depending on the attorney general's opinion relative to its land income. The commission has adopted a tentative budget within the estimated revenue and is cutting its payroll and engineering force.

A tentative agreement has been reached to bring up his nomination for action tomorrow.

Dowager Balks Trade With Soviet Russia

(By A. P. Mail).
COPENHAGEN, (By A. P. Mail).—Danish business men are ready to begin trading with the Soviet Russia, for the establishment of such relations would be beneficial to commerce and industry. But progress in this direction is barred by the attitude of the Danish court, and behind the court is the influence of the Dowager Empress of Russia, Maria Feodorovna, formerly Princess Dagmar, of Denmark, and mother of the late Emperor Nicholas who was slain by his Bolshevik jailors. King Christian, of Denmark, is her nephew and Queen Alexandra, of England, is her sister.

Daniels Says U. S. Got Worst of Naval Disarmaments Pact

Secretary Denby Tells Congress Complete Scrapping of Warships Waits Ratification of Treaty By All Powers

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WICHITA, Kas., Dec. 20.—Former Secretary of the Navy Daniels in a speech delivered here last night said that the Harding naval disarmament conference was a failure, because England and Japan got the better of the United States in the ship-scrapping compact by placing no restriction on the construction of light vessels and aircraft.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Secretary of the Navy Denby today transmitted to Congress information regarding warships scrapped or otherwise disposed of under the international naval agreement. The report shows that neither the United States nor Japan plan the complete scrapping of capital ships pending the promulgation of the treaty, through both nations have stopped building them. He quoted the Japanese minister of marine as stating that preliminary scrapping had been done, but hulls would not be broken or sunk until the treaty had been ratified by all the Powers.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The Navy League of the United States issued a statement today inviting "earnest consideration by the public of the American, British and Japanese navies," and urging additional personnel to man fully the existing vessels of the United States navy, thereby contributing to its effectiveness.
